

Buckhurst: preserving city image vital to gaming

BY TRACI BONNEY
Paul Buckhurst's first impressions of Bay St. Louis are captured in two images: the variety and attractiveness of the beachfront, and the picturesque quality and compactness of the downtown area.

Buckhurst, a partner in New York consulting firm Buckhurst Fish Hutton Katz Inc., and Hawkins Stearn of Virginia firm Economic Research Associates finished a three-day working visit to the city Saturday. The two firms have been contracted by the Bay St. Louis city council to conduct a comprehensive gaming feasibility/design guidelines/zoning study.

During their first visit, the men saw Bay St. Louis and a good bit of the rest of the Coast by car; took an extensive walking tour of downtown Bay St. Louis; met with city, state and other coastal officials and agencies; and were the guests at a private reception at City Hall.

Buckhurst said the picturesque quality of the city and the attractiveness of the beachfront and its views were things that definitely need to be preserved, things that gaming facility planners will need to consider in their developments.

"I think the city's qualities will add to the quality of any dockside gaming facility," Buckhurst commented.

Stearn concurred, saying he didn't think gaming would or should be superimposed over the city's pre-existing qualities and features.

"How gaming fits into the city and becomes part of the visitor's experience is important," he stated.

He said the consultants expect to end up with a self-evident set of judgement factors that will assist the city in approving or not approving sites for dockside gaming operations.

"The fact that we haven't yet determined what those factors are means we can't speculate about sites," he commented.

Both men said they are

Tourism, Gaming Association updated

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Hancock County Tourism and Gaming Association members heard from city consultant Jules Lagarde Thursday as to the itinerary of the city's gaming study consultants as they visit the local area.

The association met Thursday morning at Scaffid's Wheel Inn Restaurant, where it was announced that the association now has 134 members.

Lagarde spoke of the importance of the visit as an opportunity for the city to understand how to handle and manage gaming. "Can the city of Bay St. Louis exist with a few casinos?"

He said a November/December 1990 article, entitled "Deadwood Tradition: Putting Gaming Before Planning," in "Small Town" magazine, relates the present problems the area is suffering from lack of proper preparation.

Lagarde said the article ended by saying, "Booms demand planning," suggesting that things would have been done differently there had they gathered more information prior to setting up the casinos.

Lagarde spoke of how he would accompany the two men as they toured all possible gaming locations, from Bay Marina to Bayou Cadet.

In particular, he expressed the desire for the men to leave here with a feeling for the character of the area. This, he explained, is what the men must help to preserve as they explore means for economic expansion.

Lagarde said the worst possible scenario would be for the city to "sit back and just let it happen."

Marlin Torguson of Mardi Gras Casino Corp. spoke to the association about the Pete Fountain property along

Industrial Park wetlands pose problems for future Port and Harbor development

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission members listened attentively Monday as Director Harold "Buz" Olsen and engineer Carlos Cordon spoke about development limitations caused by wetland designations in the Port Bienville Industrial Park.

"Seventy percent of the park presently is wetland," Olsen told the commission.

Commission members were asked to review a proposed bill entitled the Comprehensive Wetlands Conservation and Management Act of 1991.

Through this bill, wetland designations would:

- be classified by value and function to the environment;
- be defined as water at surface for 21 days;
- include channelization and excavation of wetlands;
- include compensation to landowner and land user;
- include a balancing test for obtaining permits;
- include advanced mapping;
- include a regulatory policy on mitigation banking; and
- eliminate Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) veto power.

At present, wetlands are not classified by value and are defined as water 18-inches below surface for seven days.

Cordon said at this time each mitigation is decided case by case. "There is no way to tell whether it will be one-to-one or three-to-one."

Olsen spread out maps of the industrial park for the commission.

County hires architect for precinct building

BY TRACI BONNEY
The county board of supervisors voted Friday to contract with architect Michael Reeves for the construction of the new West Shoreline voting precinct.

The precinct's move to the Kiln-Waveland Cutoff Road, voted on by the supervisors recently, was approved by the Justice Department. By election time this fall, the precinct building must be ready for use.

The board voted to hire Reeves to plan and observe the construction of a 24-by-30-foot concrete block building with handicapped access and restrooms, and central air conditioning.

The vote to move the precinct came after heavy rains denied access to the current location.

The board also passed a resolution supporting the Port and Harbor Commission's efforts to have wetlands classified on a scale from high to low, with low wetlands being exempt from permitting for construction.

Port and Harbor Commission director Harold "Buz" Olsen explained that this measure will save companies that want

Heller claims chop job done on city trees

Larry Heller, president of the Hancock County Historical Society, claims Mississippi Power Company did a poor job of tree trimming Tuesday. The worst example, he said, is the Live Oak in front of the now-closed Angie's Restaurant on the 200 block of Main Street.

"Several of the workers claimed that they had only limited training in tree surgery," Heller commented. He said the degree of trimming done seemed to be in violation with the spirit, if not the specifics, of the recently adopted municipal tree ordinance.

Heller estimated the oak in front of Angie's to be roughly 250 years old. "It will take 50 to 75 years for the limbs to grow to their previous size," he said.

According to power company officials, the trimming is being done in preparation for a substation upgrade.

Mississippi Power Company spokesman Rex Kelly said the trimming work is contracted out to Farrens Tree Surgeons.

Kelly stated, "We are aware of the situation and we are taking customer complaints seriously and dealing with them as much as we can."

He added that power company officials plan to meet with city officials about the situation.

Buddy Eller, public relations officer for the power company, said Mississippi Power directed the tree trimmers to use better judgement in trimming the trees, and to talk to those people who had called with complaints.

"Hopefully, we have rectified the situation. For what's already been done, we can't do anything. You can't take out a glue bottle and glue limbs back on."

"But hopefully we've stopped this from happening in the future."

Larry Heller expresses anger at what he calls 'poor tree trimming' on Main Street.

Public hearings on elderly services scheduled June 25

Mississippians will have an opportunity to voice opinions, concerns and comments regarding services for the elderly during public hearings and update forums throughout the state during June and July.

These plans outline area agency goals and objectives for funding and providing services to elderly citizens in counties served by the agencies.

The joint hearings and forums are viewed by the Division of Aging and Adult Services as an opportunity for older per-

Correction

It was reported in the Thursday, June 13 edition of the Sea Coast Echo that during the Tuesday, June 11 public hearing on the elimination of the undersize catch of speckled trout, that Jim Maness of Clermont Harbor implied that the commercial seafood industry he was speaking of was the single C.F. Gollott & Son Inc. in Biloxi industry, but according to Maness it was not just the single industry but the entire Gollott family involved in the seafood industry.

The Sea Coast Echo regrets the error.

TRIPLE PLAY

Three innovative and thought-provoking short films are featured in "Triple Play" on "American Playhouse," at 9 p.m., Friday, June 21, on Mississippi ETV. "Triple Play" will repeat at noon, Sunday, June 23.

The first film, "Peacemaker," stars Lukas Haas ("Testament") and "Witness" as a young boy growing up amid the fear and uneasiness created by the nuclear clouded environment of the 1950s. When we later meet the boy as an adult, we learn what a profound effect those uneasy times—and his very special father—had on his life.

Next is "Astronomy," a contemporary drama about a young girl who finds temporary escape from her poverty-stricken life by the mysteries and vastness of the galaxy.

"The Price of Life," is about a world in which time is actually used as currency—where the 20 minutes paid for a pack of cigarettes, or the three-and-a-half years paid for a new car, actually shortens the buyer's life by that much time.

In this strange world, only those clever or ruthless enough to learn the ways of time-dealing and speculation have any hope of living past their forties; the rest live brief lives of poverty and desolation.

Farmers who have serious soil erosion, water quality or pollution problems on their land may want to consider the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP).

HIT-AND-RUN

Hancock Sheriff's Deputy reported that a Saturday hit-and-run at Lakeshore is still under investigation.

Hurt said the incident occurred between 11 and 11:30 a.m. Saturday when Will Saucier, 53, of Gulfport was fishing off the seawall one-fourth of a mile past the Paddle Wheel Inn. According to Hurt, Saucier said a boy he didn't know was fishing nearby.

A vehicle travelling too fast on Beach Blvd. hit a puddle, Hurt said, and went out of control. According to the report, Saucier told the boy to jump into the water, which he did, then Saucier tried to outrun the car.

Hurt said the car hit Saucier and threw him about 34 feet into the air. Saucier, who reported that he had recently had back surgery, was taken to Hancock Medical Center, where he was examined and released but told to see his family physician.

No suspect has been found at this time, Hurt said, but sheriff's department officials are searching for a light blue, early 1970s Mustang, for which they have a partial license plate.

SALE OF A CONTROLLED SUBSTANCE

Hancock County Metro Narcotics Task Force Director Glen Strong reported Wednesday the Tuesday arrest of a Bay St. Louis man for several charges.

Strong said Pharoah Guy Lyons, 19, of 408 Sycamore Street, was arrested at the corner of Sycamore and St. Francis streets and charged with sale of a controlled substance, resisting arrest and simple assault on a police officer.

Lyons is in the Hancock County jail on a $10,500 bond, Strong added.

He said agent Bill Pepperman is in charge of the investigation, and Agent Terry Eley assisted in the arrest.

to build in the Port Bienville Industrial Park much time and money with the permitting application.

Road and maintenance superintendent Sam Cuevas requested and received board approval for repair payments on damages caused by county grass cutters. One payment for $111 was to repair a window broken by a rock; the other, for $122, was to repair a section of mobile home siding that was punctured by a piece of wood thrown by a grass cutter's blade.

The board also authorized advertisement for bids on parts to repair the Standard landfill bulldozer's undercarriage. Cuevas estimated the parts would cost about $16,445, and said the repair work would be done in-house.

Board president Ronald Cuevas mentioned the Pearl River Community College vo-tech center at Hancock High School. He said the college plans to transfer the center to the high school and to open a new vo-tech center in the county, in a more central location (as yet unnamed).

He explained that PRCC officials requested that the board continue allocating the millage currently used for maintenance to the existing center after the transfer is made.

Attorney Lucien Gex, substituting for board attorney Gerald Gex, said he was not sure the county could give that millage to the school district, but that he would check on the matter.

In other matters, the board heard reports from Chancery Clerk Mike Necaise, Parks and Recreation Department director Hilda Bourg and board secretary Terry Guenard. The board also heard from county residents Oris Ladner about a drainage ditch problem and Paul Reilly of Bay Side Park about a road that he claims may cause a wreck because it is narrow and has sharp curves.

Olson spoke of a proposal whereby a retention pond could be constructed within the park to maintain the required wetlands, thereby freeing the fringe areas for development.

In other business the commission approved:

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

I had a couple of very proud grandparents in my office this week, Mr. and Mrs. Teddo Thomas of Kiln.

They were bringing the news about their granddaughter, Susan Christensen, formerly of Bay St. Louis, who is seeking a spot on America's 1992 Olympic yacht team.

Christensen, attended Bay Catholic Elementary and Our Lady Academy before moving to California. She is the daughter of John Christensen of Waveland and Rosie Thomas Christensen of San Jose, Calif.

She is currently ranked seventh in the country in the 470 yacht racing and won the Pacific Coast Championship 1987, while attending Orange Coast College, and in 1988 while attending the University of California, Irvine, where she was graduated in 1989.

I am sure Mr. and Mrs. Thomas will keep us up-to-date on their granddaughter's progress.

As many of you know, the United States does not provide funds for prospective Olympic athletes.

Christensen, like other Olympic hopefuls, is seeking contributions to help her campaign to make the Olympic team.

Mississippi one of two states to measure adult reading/writing

There's a proverb used by those who practice medicine that applies to our state's literacy efforts.

That phrase is: "Recognizing that the problem exists is nine-tenths of the cure."

In Mississippi, we not only have recognized that a problem exists, we are able to measure the extent of the dilemma.

Just recently literacy experts from all over the country were in Jackson. Attending the National Conference on State Literacy Assessment, these individuals were told that Mississippi is one of two states in America to do a comprehensive measurement of adult reading and writing skills.

Oregon is the only other state to have conducted a literacy assessment.

By taking this important step, this literacy "assessment" gives our state a unique opportunity to focus our literacy efforts.

With this study, we are in a better position than practically any state to tailor our literacy efforts to do the maximum amount of good. Instead of trying to just hit the target, we can now go for the bull's eye.

Some of the highlights of the Mississippi Literacy Assessment are:

- * Fewer than 100,000 adult Mississippians from the ages of 16 to 75 have little or no reading or writing skills.

- * More than 90 percent of adults have reading skills that would enable them to read simple directions on a medicine bottle, recognize common road signs and find specific facts in stories or news articles.

- * The assessment confirms that the more formal education you have, the more likely it is that you will be able to accomplish a wide range of literacy tasks, including math and the ability to read documents.

- * While the vast majority of adults in Mississippi are literate in the most basic sense:

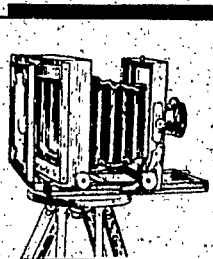

- There is a significant difference in performance between black and white, young and old, employed and unemployed,

Reckless grabage truck driver should be made to ride on back

To the Editor:

On June 10 I was turning onto Beach Boulevard at approximately noon when a garbage truck passed me.

The truck was going 48 mph when it passed Sears Avenue. Two men were holding on to the outside of the back of the truck.

This type of reckless operation of a city vehicle is unnecessary and dangerous. I can see it now, headlines: "Visitors to Waveland and two city employees killed in accident with garbage truck."

With all the problems Waveland is having with money, city employees do not need to add to them. If the truck driver is not someone's brother-in-law or one of the "good old boys," some type of disciplinary action should be taken.

I suggest putting him on the back of the garbage truck doing the picking up, not the driving.

Thank you,
Thomas Elliott

Gaming would add millions to economy

To the Editor:

This, young folks, is today's math lesson. It is about jobs and pay and the gaming industry and taxes and things like that.

Facts: There are 52 weeks in each year. (This usually includes two weeks paid vacation and one week sick and personal leave per year.)

The usual work week for a full-time job/position is 40 hours.

Therefore, if one works full-time all year, he or she will have worked 2,080 hours. (52 X 40 = 2,080).

Now, if one is working full time for a casino, a hotel, a tour boat, a golf or tennis club, the city, the county, or a baby-sitting service, a fishing camp, a big county/city cultural center containing a youth center (with live entertainment and/or dances on Friday/Saturday nights for those under age 18) and an auditorium suitable to invite a big city philharmonic orchestra once a month, or any other job... all in Bay St. Louis... and is paid a reasonable, average minimum hourly pay of about $7.50 per hour (before tips), then he/she will make (gross) only $15,600 per year.

But, a regular gross of $15,600 in Hancock County is better than no pay or occasional work/pay, or uncertain out of town jobs, even if you must pay $300 or $500 a month in federal and state taxes.

And it doesn't matter if you're only working part-time parking cars at $4.25 per hour (which will become about $9 per hour with tips.) That leaves you four to eight hours to go back to school or to work elsewhere!

Let's assume that there will be only five casinos in the Bay and in the county, and initially only 500 additional hotel/motel rooms... and that only 1,000 people from Hancock, George,

Stone, Pearl River and Harrison counties get (non-construction) gaming or tourism jobs right away.

Consequence No. 1: Jobs: 1,000 X $15,600 = $15,600,000 per year.

Quite a bit of this no doubt will be spent in Bay St. Louis and nearby in Mississippi, helping out our businesses—which can hire more people—and, via sales and other taxes, helping our city, our schools, our state, our street lighting, our roads, etc. But, $7.50 per hour is a very low average and the actual average likely will be much higher.

Consequence No. 2: Already the legislature has approved Bay St. Louis' boarding fee of $2.50 per person going aboard the casinos. If only 1,200 people per day come over from New Orleans, down from Hattiesburg, over from Biloxi, etc., this will mean $1,095,000 additional revenues to the city each year. But, my guesstimates indicate the revenues from boarding fees soon will gross almost a million dollars a month for the city. (That's $12,000,000 a year, folks! You can build one of the nicest small towns in the nation with that kind of money.)

Of course, if there are no casinos along the beach in Bay St. Louis, the Bay probably will get worse problems of people going down Beach Boulevard and other Bay streets to get to the casinos out in Waveland, Clermont Harbor, etc. without the income ($2.50 boarding fee, etc.) to take care of those problems and other city needs. Maybe the "Friends (?) of the Bay" will volunteer their time and money to handle these problems for us?

Let's say there will be only five casinos in the Bay and in the county, and that each of those has only 200 people per 20

Public should bear noise, heat to show support for graduates

Dear Editor,

I am writing in response to the editorial concerning the 1991 Bay St. Louis Senior High School graduation written in the Sunday, June 9 issue of the paper.

Yes, the heat was overwhelming, and the audio system was extremely inadequate. However, I was at least given the opportunity to share in one of the most important and most significant experiences of my niece's life.

Had the administration opted to conduct the commencement exercises in the newly built auditorium, I, and many others of those who attended, would have been left standing outside the auditorium doors or at home due to the very limited seating.

Immorality on television must be eliminated

Dear Editor,

I'm a 40-year-old female Christian who is by far no prude. I have lived and am still living my life to the fullest, but with different values than some.

It is a sad state of affairs when at any time of the day or evening young children or elderly people in nursing homes, or at home, whose sole enjoyment is the television, are constantly bombarded with the filth of bed-hopping, wife-swapping, soap operas.

And in response to the noise level, there will always be rude and disrespectful individuals at any public gathering, so let us not attempt to place the blame on anyone. We should be thankful that we were given the opportunity to share in this very special time of these graduates' lives.

Finally, just a point of fact, I too am an alumnus of Bay Senior High School. My graduation ceremony was also held in the gymnasium where it was just as hot and just as noisy. However, like the graduates of 1991, I was grateful that all of my family was given the chance to attend and show their support for me.

Sincerely,
Aimee Scaffidi Thompson

Music ends for Keesler's band

The music from Keesler's 502nd Air Force Band will come to an end in July after nearly 50 years of entertaining.

As part of the Air Force Budget cutbacks, the 502nd and five other bands are being deactivated. The Air Force will now operate with 14 bands worldwide.

Air Force bands have historically provided enormous support in terms of recruiting, morale and esprit de corps, ceremonial functions and community relations programs.

The restructuring will leave the Air Force band program at a size consistent with a leaner, streamlined total force, while recognizing its important role in support of the Air Force mission.

Keesler's band primarily performed throughout Mississippi, Louisiana and into Florida, but made longer trips when called upon. They performed as far west as New Mexico and as far south as the island of St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands.

In the last two years, Keesler's band performed more than 500 times to approximately 500,000 people.

Next month the 502nd band will entertain on base as part of the 50th anniversary of Keesler in an old-fashioned hangar dance and conduct a final public concert performance in the Saenger Theater June 25. The band's last performance will be the 4th of July as part of homecoming activities for Desert Storm returnees.

All but two of the 35 members of the 502nd band are being transferred to other bands.

The band officially closes its doors July 15.

aware of and prepared to deal with the strong factions both for and against gaming on the beachfront.

Buckhurst said most planning assignments for commercial development come with some sort of concerns, but he considers that positive because it will help the consultants in formulating their judgement factor lists.

"It is helpful to hear and understand the concerns of the people about the impacts not only to the businesses, but to the neighborhoods as well, because it will help us in suggesting ways those impacts can be mitigated," he stated.

While the consultants will deal with the concerns of the various factions, Buckhurst said they will not let those concerns become the overriding issue. "We must keep our focus on preparing the proposals," he commented.

Stearn agreed with Buckhurst's statements. "There are very few assignments that don't have side-taking of some sort."

Their job as consultants, he continued, is to try to identify and cast light on those things that will bring the greatest benefit to the city.

Stearn said the consultants' projections about the number of visitors gaming may draw to the city will take into consideration several different scenarios, including the possibility that either Harrison County or Louisiana will open their doors to gaming.

Although their schedule is not yet finalized, city consultant Jules Lagarde said the men will have public meetings and may meet with groups and individuals to hear their concerns.

He added that he hopes the State Gaming Commission will follow the consultants' work, since they expect to uncover issues that may not have been addressed in state gaming law.

Riviera to hold auditions for 'The Music Man'

Riviera Productions announces auditions for their summer musical extravaganza, "The Music Man," will be Monday, June 17, at 7 p.m. at the Society for Retarded Citizens/Church Street School at 1215 Church Street, Gulfport.

The school is located one block south of Pass Road, one block east of Teagarden Road.

The Music Man is the story of a con man who comes to a small town in turn-of-the-century Iowa selling marching band equipment that he does not intend to deliver.

He falls in love with the town librarian and reforms. Riviera will present the show on Aug. 16, 17 and 18 at the Saenger Theatre, Biloxi.

Bob Moody will direct, with Mary Evans as choreographer.

A large cast of both children and adults is needed of all ages. Be prepared to sing. An accompanist will be provided. For details, call 872-2833 or 864-2044.

First Assembly hosts free music concert

Doves' Nest Ministries will hold a live concert with the Streetman and Company Sunday, June 23, 6 p.m., at First Assembly of God Church.

The free concert will feature contemporary Christian music and live drama.

The church is located at 1912 Arnold Street in Waveland.

hour day. (That's kinda few, since everybody within a 600-mile radius will come down to the "Mississippi Riviera" by plane, bus, car, horse and buggy, train (maybe) or boat.) 200 would mean only 10 people per hour! (Heck, we'll probably get more than that from Wiggins!)

Five castions times 200 equals 1,000 per day. Let's then assume that at least that many come down every day—to the beach, to the food outlets, to the casinos, and, occasionally, to swim, to fish, to play golf, to play tennis, etc.

Further assuming each spends an average of only $50 while here in the area, this would mean only $50,000 per day or $18,200,000 per year. Of course, those who are staying overnight in a motel, hotel, or a "bed and breakfast" house will spend more. So a figure of $18,200,000 per year would be a very conservative guesstimate, in my opinion.

These are among the figures I tried/wanted to present to the City Council last week: 1,000 new jobs for at least $15,600,000 per year; and new minimum area revenues $18,200,000 per year.

From above, plenty of tax revenues to improve everything!

We all know Mississippi desperately needs the jobs and the money. So let's support and help our new gaming commissioner Royal Walker and our own tourism and gaming association take advantage of this once-in-a-lifetime opportunity now!

Thank you.

Merchants Bank and Trust Company earns highest Veribanc distinction

Special to the Echo
Kitty T. Heller, president of Veribanc Inc., recently announced that Merchants Bank and Trust Company, on the Gulf Coast since 1903, continues as a "Blue Ribbon Bank."

Veribanc's premium designation for institutions exhibiting special evidence of financial safety and strength. The recognition applies to Veribanc's most recent analysis period; the fourth quarter of 1990. Of the nation's 12,795 banks, fewer than 10 percent have earned the Blue Ribbon classification with as much consistency as Merchants Bank and Trust Company. This performance stands out, especially because the fourth quarter of 1990 was one of the worst periods in recent banking history for low earnings and problem loan exposure.

To qualify as a Blue Ribbon Bank, an institution must meet Veribanc's stringent criteria for capital strength, asset quality and liquidity, as well as other requirements in several other categories. As of December 31, 1990, Merchants Bank and Trust Company's liquid assets amounted to 83 percent of total deposits, as ample source of funds for the lending and deposit needs of its customers.

The bank's financial soundness is further evidenced by its capital position. Merchant Bank's primary capital-to-assets ratio was 9.4 percent, a proportion significantly greater than the average primary capital-to-assets ratio of all banks in Mississippi, 8.3 percent, and the nationwide banking industry average of eight percent.

Veribanc is an independent research firm that assesses on a quarterly basis the financial health of approximately 30,000 federally-insured banks, thrifts and credit unions. The company makes this information available to private, corporate and public sector clients throughout the world.

Veribanc is also frequently quoted or featured in the national media, in such publications as The New York Times, Money Magazine, The Wall Street Journal and Newsweek. The company's data is also used by several television networks and government agencies.

Magnolia Place opens doors

Hancock Holding Company shares trade in NASDAQ national market

The common stock of Hancock Holding Company began trading June 4 in the NASDAQ (National Association of Securities Dealers Automated Quotation System) National Market, announced Leo W. Seal Jr., president and chief executive officer.

Hancock Holding Company, whose trading symbol is HBHC, is a two-bank holding company with subsidiaries in South Mississippi and Baton Rouge, La. Seal noted that Hancock Holding Company's entry into the NASDAQ National Market provides brokers and others with immediate access to the best bid and asked prices and other information about the company's shares throughout the trading day.

Those prices are available over more than 190,000 electronic terminals in brokers' offices throughout the United States and the free world.

Trading data are also distributed widely through wire services for selective dissemination by newspapers and radio and television stations. Hancock Holding Company Stock will be quoted by most daily newspapers in the Over the Counter Market (OTC) and in such publications as "The Chicago Tribune," "Los Angeles Times," "The Wall Street Journal" and "The New York Times."

Robinson-Humphrey Company Inc. (a division of Shearson-Lehman Hutton Inc.), along with A. G. Edwards & Sons Inc., J. C. Bradford & Co., Morgan Keegan & Co. and Wheat First Securities Inc. will be the primary market makers in Hancock Holding Company Stock.

In addition to increased market visibility, NASDAQ gives Hancock Holding Company advantage of multiple market makers that compete to offer the best bid and asked prices, as opposed to a single specialist on the floor of a stock exchange.

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy
McGuire Caire

With the weather forecasters predicting good weather - we hope, we hope - for us this Sunday on Father's Day, you may be sure than many a dad, young or old, along our Coast will be firing up the barbecue or pit or lighting the gas grill or whatever, following that old, old rite of cooking over outdoor fires!

Happily, there's no shortage of good barbecue "makin'" and such at our area supermarkets, which are running "specials" on pork ribs and chops, along with beef specials, as well as chickens, parts or whole, to ensure that the Father's Day Feast won't bend the food budget all out of shape.

On the other hand, why not splurge a bit on a good thick steak for that "meat and potatoes" man? He deserves it, doesn't he? You'll still get good value for your money! If you're in a generous mood, stop at the meat counters and feast your eyes on those whole, untrimmed rib-eyes (10 to 12 lbs. average) cut as you like.

Top sirloin steaks, boneless, are another excellent choice for the grill, and are offered at good savings. Other fine choices are beef shoulder steaks and that flavorful favorite, beef chuck roasts.

Choose your pork spare ribs small or large, as you will; you'll get good value with either choice. Pork chops are another of my favorite cuts for the barbecue pit. And, let's not ignore those catfish fillets - if you've not tasted grilled or barbecued catfish, you've missed a treat. I'm also fond of grilled shrimp and barbecued crabs.

Speaking of catfish, try this recipe from the Catfish Farmers of Mississippi Association, which they call:

CATFISH CAPER
2 lbs. skinned catfish fillet
1/2 cup melted fat or oil
1/3 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup chopped onion
2 Tbsp. capers and juice

2 Tbsp. catsup
Salt, optional
2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
2 tsp. sugar
4 bay leaves, crushed
2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
1/4 tsp. pepper
Paprika

Place fillets in a single layer in a shallow baking dish. Combine remaining ingredients except paprika. Pour sauce over fillets and let stand for 30 minutes, turning once.

Remove fillets, reserving sauce for basting. Place fillets in well-greased, hinged wire grills, sprinkle with paprika and cook 4 inches from moderately hot coals for 8 minutes. Baste with sauce and sprinkle with paprika. Turn and cook for 7 to 10 minutes longer or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. (Six servings.)

Or you might try:
PATIO CATFISH
6 skinned, pan-dressed catfish (3/4 lb. each)
3/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
1/3 cup lemon juice
Salt (optional)
Paprika

Clean, wash and dry fish. Combine butter, lemon juice and salt. Cut 6 pieces of heavy-duty aluminum foil, 18x18 inches each. Grease lightly. Place 2 tablespoons of sauce on the foil, and place the fish in the sauce. Top each fish with 2 tablespoons sauce and sprinkle with paprika.

Bring the foil up over the fish, closing all edges with tight double folds and making 6 packages. Place packages on a grill 6 inches from moderately hot coals. Cook for 25 to 30 minutes or until flakes easily when tested with a fork. (Six servings.)

You may use frozen catfish in these dishes, but why do so when you can get the tasty farm-raised catfish at our markets? You may substitute other firm-fleshed fish, but why would you want to? As you may have already realized, I like catfish!

With all the good prices on fresh vegetables, you'll have no problem choosing vegetables to go along with your entree, will you? There's fresh corn on the cob and English peas and green beans, to start off with, and cabbage for that cole slaw! And potatoes, as well, and lots of others.

For dessert? Berries, berries, berries for me! Raspberries, strawberries, blueberries - take your choice or mix'em all up together in a fruit cup or for tumbling over ice cream, (your own homemade or a commercial version). Or, mix up quickly a berry "cobbler" or pie. Enjoy!

Hancock Today

A Special Edition

The Sea Coast Echo is proud to announce the publication date of Hancock Today on Sunday, June 30, 1991.

This special edition will be filled with stories and pictures of the people and events defining the past and shaping the future of Hancock County. Blessed with abundant natural beauty and resources, an ideal climate, a skilled labor force and easy access to all forms of transportation, Hancock County is poised for growth.

What will it take to push our county ahead? How do we preserve our quality of life and the rich traditions of the past? Can our education system keep pace? Should Bay St. Louis and Waveland consolidate city services? Are we prepared if another Hurricane Camille threatens?

These and other issues will be explored in Hancock Today. The Sea Coast Echo would also like to include the story of your business in this keepsake edition. Please complete the enclosed form and mail to P.O. Box 2009, Bay St. Louis, MS 39521, or bring it to our offices at 124 Court Street. Deadline for receiving forms is Monday, June 17, 1991.

Why Should a Business Advertise In a Special Edition?

- Interesting reading. People like to read about people, and a good special edition is full of pictures and stories about people. It is generally the best-read section of the year.
- Good news. People are always complaining about "not enough good news." Special editions are generally upbeat and contain the good news people are hungry for.
- It is a good time to "brag." The special edition is the best time for businesses to tell something good about themselves, congratulate their employees. It is the best public relations opportunity of the year.
- Shelf life. No other edition stays around as long as the special edition. People hold on to them. Copies will be given to the chamber and other groups for newcomers, so an ad will work for a merchant all year long.
- The special edition is seen as a success story for the community. The businesses included will be perceived as doing well.

WEDDINGS, ENGAGEMENTS

ROBIN MOLESKI
AND RONALD HODEHode-
Moleski

Mr. and Mrs. Sid Sicotte of Gulfport announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, V. Robin Sicotte Moleski, to Ronald C. Hode, son of the late Lones H. and Ruby Pearl (Keller) Hode.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Gulfport High School. She earned a degree in cosmetology from American Beauty College and is employed with The Hair Clinic in Waveland.

Mr. Hode is a graduate of Bay Senior High School. He received an associate degree in business from Pearl River Community College. He is currently attending Jefferson Davis Community College, where he is studying microcomputers. Mr. Hode is employed with the Residential Care Center.

First Baptist Church in Bay St. Louis will be the setting for the June 27 marriage at 7 p.m. A reception will follow in the church fellowship hall. Friends and relatives are invited to attend.

Wheat-
Spurlock

First United Pentecostal Church in Waveland was the setting for the June 1 marriage of Sandra Ann Stoltz Spurlock and Harry L. Wheat. The Rev. Billy R. Wheat, father of the groom, officiated at the 11 a.m. ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne E. Stoltz Sr. of Waveland. The groom's parents are the Reverend and Mrs. Billy R. Wheat of Picayune.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal white gown overlaid with iridescent lace fashioned with princess bodice, sweetheart neckline and sheer puffed sleeves. A ruffled overskirt extended to a chapel train. Her matching shoulder length lace veil was attached to a large bow adorned with pearls and lace. Both gown and veil were designed and fashioned by the bride.

She carried a bouquet of white petunias, pink and blue silk roses accented with pearls and matching satin streamers.

Susan A. Smith attended her sister as matron of honor.

Big B announces dividends

Anthony Bruno, president of Big B Inc. announced the company's board of directors approved the reinstatement of a $.04 quarterly dividend.

The board's decision to reinstate the quarterly dividend was based on two strong quarters of sales and profits as well as a positive outlook for the remainder of the year. The dividend is payable June 28, 1991, to shareholders of record on June 14, 1991.

Profits for the first quarter which ended May 11, 1991, rose to $1,909,000 or $.25 per share versus $395,000 or $.05 per share in the prior year.

The sharp rise in profitability resulted largely from improved gross margins in the retail stores as well as reduced warehousing cost resulting from the consolidation of the company's Atlanta warehouse into its Bessemer distribution center.

In January, 1991, the company began operating from its newly enlarged 440,000 square foot distribution center in Bessemer, Ala. which is equipped with the latest technology in picking, scanning and conveyor systems.

Sales for the quarter rose to $132,681,000, up 8 percent from $122,898,000 in the prior year. This sales increase was achieved despite the closing of six underperforming stores during the quarter. Three of the closed store locations were reopened as bargain stores, a new format which the company is testing. One store was opened in Lewisburg, Tenn., bringing Big B to a total of 305 stores operated at the end of the quarter.

Big B Inc. operates stores in Alabama (148), Florida (20), Georgia (109), Mississippi (9) and Tennessee (19).

Jewish mourning traditions explained

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one in a continuing series of articles about Jewish beliefs, customs and practices. Lois Abrams is a volunteer teacher with the GED program, a Diamond-head resident and a member of the local Jewish community.

Special to the Echo
BY LOIS ABRAMS

This article is a continuation of the previous one answering the question regarding Jewish traditions at the time of death. The last article dealt with the deceased. This one tells of the mourning family. As in the last, the sharpest contrast is between the Reformed groups and the traditional Orthodox.

After the Orthodox body has been washed, clothed in white and laid in a plain wooden casket which is closed, only his/her immediate family may visit until after the funeral.

On the way home from the cemetery, the family must take a different route. The family may adhere to a unique tradition: as they leave the gravesite, they pluck a few blades of grass which they throw over their heads. This reminds the mourners of their own eventual deaths.

After the burial of an Orthodox Jew, the first meal eaten by the mourners must not be prepared by the family nor of their ingredients. This meal is always a gift from friends and neighbors.

In Reformed Jewish homes, friends and neighbors take over the household chores from the time of death. They console the bereaved. Friends or relatives may help the Reformed mour-ners choose a coffin, arrange the funeral, notify those that must know, bring or prepare food.

Reformed Jews do have visitations at the home of the deceased or at the funeral home. The casket may be opened or closed, as desired by the family. A blanket of flowers or a single flower is usually placed on the coffin as a gift from the immediate family.

No burial or visitation for any Jew can be held from sundown Friday to sundown Saturday, the Jewish Sabbath, nor on Rosh Hashonah (New Year's Day) nor Yom Kippur (The Day of Atonement).

The Orthodox groups divide mourning into three periods. The first is known as "sitting shivah." A garment one wears at the time of the death of a loved one is torn and worn throughout the week of mourning except on the Sabbath.

Mourners sitting shivah sit on low stools and wear slippers, canvas shoes, or those of rubber, but never leather. The members of the family can sit shivah together or at their individual homes.

This period lasts seven days following the burial, except on Sabbath. Male mourners refrain from shaving; females do not use cosmetics. Neither sex may go to work unless the rabbi gives permission for extenuating circumstances.

During shivah there must be an avoidance of pleasure. This shivah period ends the morning of the seventh day following burial.

Now, if by chance the death is during the eight days of Passover, shivah can only begin after the Festival ends. Thus the last day of Passover is the first of shivah. Hanukkah and Purim do not terminate shivah.

Any person visiting the home of mourning during shivah days does not extend greetings. It's best to say nothing since words can express so little of the depths of grief that the bereaved feel. The mourner should be allowed to open the conversation, not the visitor.

The second period of bereavement among Orthodox Jews extends from the end of shivah through the 30th day after burial. Attending parties or getting married is forbidden, as well as shaving or cutting one's hair, for this month.

The end of these 30 days concludes all mourning for all relatives other than a mother or father. Should a major festival occur during these 30 days, the festival is celebrated and mourning concluded.

The last of the three periods, the mourning of the death of a mother or father, lasts for 12 Hebrew months. Kaddish, the prayer said for the living mourners of a dead mother or father, is recited daily by the Orthodox sons for 11 months. Then all mourning stops.

Reformed Jews show respect by attending religious services weekly to recite the Kaddish. This attendance is for 10 months or until the tombstone is dedicated.

This marker is placed on the grave, and the date to do so is left to the convenience of the family members. Usually the prayers at this dedication of the stone may be read by a family member or by a rabbi. The dedication ends the period of mourning for the Reformed Jew.

There are no specific days or times when a Jew or Jewess should visit the cemetery, but it is never done on the Sabbath or during the Days of Penitence between Rosh Hashonah and Yom Kippur.

It is customary among both Orthodox and Reformed Jews to give donations to the temple or synagogue or to a charity in memory of a deceased relative, or friend. This can be given after the funeral or on the anniversary of the death.

In some Reformed communities, close relatives of the deceased will remember the Sabbath of the Yohzeit (anniversary of the death) by decorating the pulpit with flowers.

Among Reformed Jews, marriages that were planned before the death will take place, but with only a minimum of celebration. If not arranged before the death, they are usually not held during the first 30 days after the burial.

Please feel free to submit any questions you have on Judaism to the Sea Coast Echo. I will try to answer them, and if I can't, I will find someone who can.

REFLECTIONS
ON LIFE

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

What a world!

Are you one given to say occasionally, "I'm bored," or "Life is boring," or "Life's a drag," or "There's nothing interesting to do?"

If you are, search within and without yourself and discover the incredible wonder which is you, and your fantastic playpen which is the universe.

Our own body, the most intimate contact which we have with anything in the universe, builds new cells at the astonishing rate of 50 million per second. Every cell contains about 46 chromosomes, each of which in turn contains countless genes.

To any careful observer, our body is the most wonderful machine anywhere. Some 60,000 miles of blood vessels daily distribute 9 or 10 tons of blood pumped by that irrepressible little muscle, the heart.

Laid side by side, the red blood cells in the capillaries, veins and arteries of an adult would girdle the world almost four times.

As for physical prowess, however, we are the relative wrackings of the world. We can't handle objects many times our own weight as the ant can, nor can we leap many times our height as does the flea.

A lumbering elephant easily outruns us, while our hearing is no match for a bat's which picks up sound waves anywhere between 7, to 98,000 cycles per second and can distinguish its own radar squeaks from that of any other bat. Without our wondrous brain development, we could never survive.

There is wonder wherever we turn. From the snail's top speed of a small fraction of a mile per hour to the super-highway speed of the antelopes, the irrational kingdom displays a sparkling, amazing variety of body chemistry, abilities, appearances and purposes.

With the hair-raising acceleration of a drag racer, the beautiful cheetah hits 40 m.p.h. in just 2 seconds, and attains a top speed of 70.

No helicopter can even come close to the maneuver of the graceful dragonfly or of the tiny hummingbird, whose heart beats up to 1,000 times per minute.

One species of those perpetual fliers, the swifts, migrates 2,000 miles across the Caribbean each winter, reportedly completing the trip in just about a day.

People who winter in Miami have nothing on the Arctic Tern which spends its summers around the North Pole and its winters near the South Pole.

What a spectacle is the 100-ton blue whale. Massive beyond belief, it weighs as much as a fully loaded Boeing 707 jetliner, or as much as 16 African bull elephants.

Equally intriguing in quite another way is the inanimate universe. So minute, so dense is the nucleus of the atom that one cubic millimeter filled with nuclei weighs 100,000 tons.

On the other hand, so gigantic is the star Alpha Herculis that its radius would reach far beyond the planet Mars if it were placed where the sun is. Of the countless galaxies of the universe, ours is not particularly large; yet, its diameter stretches out nearly a million trillion miles. All living things strain to be alive and vibrant, as we see in the maize and bean seeds which are growing strongly after being retrieved from 2,400-year-old graves in Peru. A drag? Boring? Only an embalmed mind cannot see and appreciate us fabulous creatures and our marvelous planet.

Bay, Waveland theaters offer drama workshops for summer readers

A hands-on drama workshop will be the featured event for the third week of the Hancock County Library System's 1991 summer reading program.

This year's theme is "Sizzling Summer Celebration," chosen to encourage local children to celebrate the joys of summer reading.

The program will be held by all three branches of the system. Children from Kiln and City-County libraries will be visited by members of the Bay St. Louis Little Theater at 1:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday, June 18 and 19, respectively.

The Waveland Library will hold a workshop with the Waveland Players on Thursday, June 20 at 10 a.m.

This year's summer reading program is designed for children in grades 1-8, and those joining will receive a Sizzling Summer Reading Record to record the books they have read and a certificate of completion at the end of the program.

In order to register, children must go to the branch they intend to visit and complete the required forms.

All participants must set a reading goal of at least 5-6 books, but a personal goal of more than that is encouraged.

Further information on the program may be obtained by contacting Sandra Ladner, Kiln Library, 255-1724; Karen Peoples, Waveland Library, 467-9240; or Prima Wusnack, City-County Library, 467-5282.
